

College of Direct Support

Webinar Announcement: Upcoming Information Session

Nov. 4, 2014 10 a.m. - 11:30 a.m.

Webinar description

The College of Direct Support (CDS) is a set of web-based courses designed for direct support professionals and others who support individuals with disabilities. This flexible coursework is designed to connect direct support professionals with a nationally recognized set of skills and clear career path and to celebrate their important role in helping the people they support toward developing richer, more fulfilling lives.

Attend a live, online session using a computer and phone. Instructions are e-mailed to registered participants. Registration is limited to allow opportunity for presenter / participant interaction.

Target audience

Lead agency and direct care providers who use or are interested in the College of Direct Support.

Learning objectives

- View a demonstration of the College of Direct Support learning management system
- Identify how CDS can be customized to meet the needs of Minnesota users
- Use implementation strategies for a College of Direct Support roll out
- See best practices when using the College of Direct Support

Visit the College of Direct Support for specific training courses and programs CDS has to offer.
